Christian Environment

Patten University seeks to relate the Judeo-Christian ethic to the whole of education, including the liberal arts, sciences and fine arts, co-curricular activities, one's personal life, and society in general. Hence, the university asks for commitment to this ethic, to Christ in particular and also that the students assume the responsibilities of membership in the college community. The basis of interaction at Patten University is the expectation that students, faculty and staff will live in accordance with the values of a Christian academic community. Choosing to join this community obligates each person to follow the code of behavior which is guided by the biblical values of love of God, neighbor and self. These values are reflected in an academic environment which seeks to cultivate critical habits of mind, creative and critical thinking, and the willingness to challenge one's own perspectives as well as to seriously consider opposing viewpoints. This critical habit of mind also involves an appreciation for diversity of ideas as well as diverse cultures and ethic groups.

While Patten University strives to be distinctively Christian, this does not mean that only those from Christian backgrounds are admitted as students. It does mean, however, that every student is expected to accept and adhere to the basic policies of the university that relate to the spiritual and social character of the campus environment. Patten has long recognized the value of maintaining certain behavioral standards that contribute to the atmosphere of the campus, foster fellowship with Christians of various denominations, and strengthen our Christian testimony to our community. Members of the Patten community are expected to exercise discernment and avoid all activities that tend to be morally degrading. Patten University expects tangible evidence of maturing Christian convictions and discerning judgment from its students. In this light, Patten asks all students to support the spiritual and social character of the campus and the expressed behavioral standards listed below during enrollment:

- Attend Chapels when required by course schedule
- Maintain biblical standards of sexual conduct, including abstinence from sexual relations outside of marriage
- Refrain from the use of alcohol, cigarettes and other tobacco products on campus, in student housing or at any college sponsored event or activity
- Comply with the Campus Attire Standard
- Participate in Christian/Community Service activities to explore the giving of oneself in service to others and experience rewards of that service
- Attend a church of the student's choice regularly

Patten University reserves the right to dismiss any student, who in the university's judgment, does not adhere to the stated regulations governing student conduct or fails to live within the expressed principles, policies, programs and expectations of the university.

I have read the above statement and understand the expectations that will be placed upon me as a Patten University student. I commit myself to abiding by these policies and understand that failure to do so may result in confrontation, counseling, discipline or expulsion.
